

I'd like to comment on the FCC's consideration to overturn the no-call law in my state of Wisconsin. I've been enrolled in the no-call list for a couple years now, and I'm happy to report that the volume of irritating telemarketing calls to my home phone has dropped to virtually zero. I urge the FCC to value the interests of individual consumers over big businesses, and to uphold the Wisconsin law as it is.